ABOUT TAV COLLEGE

Born 25 years ago from a strong desire to provide the community with education and training, TAV has developed into a comprehensive college, offering courses to a large multi-ethnic body of students. From its beginning as an affiliate of Champlain College, TAV College is now a private CEGEP recognized and accredited for subsidies from the Quebec Ministry of Education. .

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Arts and Letters program will allow the student to become familiar with the technologies of communication, to study and practice them. Students in this program have an interest in the media, web interactivity and creativity; they want to develop the skills necessary to pursue university studies, including new media and television on the web. The College provides students in the program with state of the art computer labs allowing each student to have an individual work station, a study room for the realization of individual and team work. Video and film studio equipment provided including digital cameras, microphones, and other relevant material, and the most up to date digital editing softwares.

UNIVERSITY STUDIES/ CARRER PATHS

Choosing the Arts and Letters program at TAV college prepares students with significant preparation for university studies in a variety of disciplines like communication, journalism, translation, English, foreign languages, international development, education, history, social sciences, teaching, theatre, liberal arts and philosophy, to name a few.
